

Bloomberg Law, "Delaware High Court Rulings Seen as Staving Off Corporate Exits," quotes Kristen S. Swift, Esq., 1-23-2026

Kaufman Dolowich's Kristen Swift was featured among thought leaders in a recent Bloomberg Law article that discusses how two rulings from Delaware's Supreme Court signal a potential shift in the way it handles disputes concerning controller-led companies as the state fights for its best-in-class corporate reputation.

Ms. Swift is quoted in the article as saying, "the "surgical" Moelis ruling [involving an investment banking firm] proved the court was focused on the big picture and unswayed by controversy. The court's future ruling on S.B. 21 will likely rise above the DExit frenzy and stick to answering the narrow set of questions in front of it."

Subscribers can read the full article here.