

Client Communications During COVID-19, Daily Journal

*By Louie H. Castoria, partner, at KD in San Francisco
Published October 23, 2020 - Daily Journal*

California's Rules of Professional Conduct are primarily about one thing: communication. And communicating effectively with clients may help inoculate attorneys against potential malpractice suits.

The problem with communication these days is that everybody talks about it and nobody does anything about it.