

Law.com, "Corporate Attorneys Know Their Clients Shouldn't Be Asking Chatbots Legal Questions. Do The Clients?," quotes Kristen Swift, Esq., 4-30-26

Kaufman Dolowich's Kristen Swift, Managing Partner of KD's Delaware office, was recently quoted in Law.com in an article exploring how AI chatbot use may affect privilege, discoverability, and corporate litigation strategy.

In the article, Ms. Swift cautioned that using a chatbot can feel like "shouting out into the void," with the risk that those communications could later surface in court.

Subscribers can read the full article here: Corporate Attorneys Know Their Clients Shouldn't Be Asking Chatbots Legal Questions. Do The Clients? | Law.com